

past results of authorization registered in the database for each object requesting authorization and for each person requesting authorization.

6. An electronically authorizing device according to claim 5, wherein said authorization result registration means registers, in the database, the result of authorization or repudiation for the object requesting authorization, and repudiation reasons when the repudiation is rendered.

7. An electronically authorizing device according to claim 6, wherein said authorization result reference means makes a reference to accumulated number of cases of authorization or repudiation and accumulated number of cases of the repudiated reasons within a predetermined term concerning the past results of authorization registered in the database.

8. An electronically authorizing device according to claim 6, wherein said authorization result reference means makes a reference to a ratio of the repudiated reasons during a predetermined term in the form of a chart concerning the past results of authorization registered in the database.

9. An electronically authorizing method comprising:
an authorization result registration process of registering a result of authorization in a database when an object requesting authorization is to be authorized or repudiated; and an authorization result reference process of making a reference to the past results of authorization registered in the database for each object requesting authorization and for each person requesting authorization.

10. An electronically authorizing method according to claim 9, wherein said authorization result registration process registers, in the database, a result of authorization or repudiation for the object requesting authorization, and reasons of repudiation when the repudiation is rendered.

11. An electronically authorizing method according to claim 10, wherein said authorization result reference process makes a reference to accumulated number of cases of authorization or repudiation and accumulated number of cases of the repudiated reasons within a predetermined term concerning the past results of authorization registered in the database.

09734402.121200

12. An electronically authorizing method according to claim 10, wherein said authorization result reference process makes a reference to a ratio of the repudiated reasons during a predetermined term in the form of a chart concerning the past results of authorization registered in the database.